GOLF, YOM KIPPUR AND THE STATE OF VIRGINIA

RABBI FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

The finalists of the recent woman's gold tournament for the championship of the State of Virginia were Mrs. Jean Jones and Mrs. J. G. Spitz. Mrs. Spitz is a Jewess and resides in Richmond. The finals of the tournament were scheduled to be played on Saturday, September 18. It just happened that this year Yom Kippur, our supreme religious festival, occurred on that date. Mrs. Spitz informed the president of the Virginia Golf Association that September the eighteenth was a holy day for her, and that she could not play on that day. She requested him to postpone the finals to Monday the 20th, as Sunday was the Christian day of rest and no match could be scheduled then. Her request was refused. The authorities declared that unless she appeared to play in the finals on Yom Kippur, she would default to her opponent. Mrs. Spitz did not play on Yom Kippur, and Mrs. Jean Jones was declared woman golf champion of the State of Virginia.

To Mrs. Spitz we extend our heartiest congratulations for her splendid exhibition of loyalty to her faith. She had probably dreamt a long time of winning the championship of the state. Her default may have meant the frustration of one of her life's ambitions, but she preferred to reject the tinselled crown of a golf championship, that she might add another diadem to the crown of the Torah. She would rather forego her personal success, than violate a beautiful spiritual tradition of her people. She has lost the golf championship of her state, but she has become a champion for the Jewish name and for the Jewish woman. Wherever this incident is known, and it is known throughout the United States as well as in the State of Virginia, the Jewish name will be more beautiful and the Jewish woman will wear in dignity. In this land of the North we rejoice in the exploit of this Jewish woman of the South, and we know that her self-denial will be an inspiration to the Jewish women of Canada.

As for the officials of the Golf Association of Virginia who refused to postpone the match to meet Mrs. Spitz's conscientious objection, they are unworthy of representing that great and historic state. They have betrayed Virginia, for they have proved false to its traditions. Among Virginia's sons were some of the truly great leaders of the Republic. Thomas Jefferson, whom I consider the greatest American lies buried in one of its hillsides, and it was Thomas Jefferson who put into the constitution of the State of Virginia a statute guaranteeing religious freedom to all. Virginia was the first state on the American continent to have such a law in her fundamental code. This is a glorious record, and the petty officials who refused to postpone a golf match lest a Jewess win the championship were doing violence to the finest traditions of Virginia. We grieve not for Mrs. Spitz, but we do grieve for that state that men with such pygmied spirits can hold representative positions in it. Good sportsmanship but should have made a change imperative, but religious prejudice has run roughshod over man's finest instincts.

Mrs. Spitz lost nothing. She made a reputation for herself greater than any she could have made by winning countless champion.

JEWISH UNIVERSITY STUDENTS AND MENORAH

During the next few days the two universities at Toronto and the various professional schools will be opened, and the usual quota of Jewish students will be enrolled.

It would be practicing self-deception to imagine that the status of the Jewish students at the schools of higher learning is similar to that of the non-Jewish students, and that the inescapable Jewish problem does not appear here as in all other cases where Jews are concerned.

It is true that in Canadian universities the official attitude of the faculties has never given rise to suspicion of discrimination against Jewish students. It must be admitted that at least in the leading Eastern universities with which we have been in touch for a number of years the heads and the staffs have consistently treated the Jewish undergraduates with fairness and impartiality worthy of their position in the life of the nation. In this respect our Canadian institutions are superior to a great many of the seats of higher learning in the United States. While the principle of "numerus clausus" is East-European in origin, the free republic to the south is not without its own version of the same product. Its idea of the catholicity of education is expressed in the well-known "Harvard Method," which has been adopted in a number of other universities serving under spiritual vasalage to Harvard. In Canada the traditions of Harvard are as yet not venerated.

But the fact remains, nevertheless, that outside the class-rooms, the Jewish students are generally made to feel as outsiders, as interlopers. On the athletic field, in the campus life, the Jews who are not thin-skinned cannot help realizing that they are not welcome. The Jewish student must possess exceptional merit to achieve what others can accomplish with much less effort and talent. The student body, after all, suffers from the faults and weaknesses of the general population. The sacred atmosphere of the academy is not puissant enough to destroy all the bacilli of prejudice which are rampant in the outside world. And the lot of the Jewish student is, in the main, analogous to the lot of the Jew in the general life of the country.

Now, we believe we are not officious if we posit this question to the students about to begin or resume their studies at school: "What are you going to do about this business of your Jewishness?" "Are you going to ignore it or are you going to look into it and find out what it means?" We are not confronting the student with any abstruse, theoretical problem. The question is one of personal conduct, of adaptation. It is one of the category of questions which the intelligent person always seeks to settle for himself.

There are those students who are students merely by accident. They come to a university to while away in a pleasant form the period of adolescence. There are others who come merely to learn a profession to serve them as a means of livelihood. They are not irked by the desire to know what is going on in the world and to orient themselves in the labors of the great minds. To them the Jewish question even when it impinges on their personal experience, means no more than the host of other concerns that engage the inquiring minds at the university.

JEWISH NATIONAL LIBRARY IN JERUSALEM

The work of the building of the Jewish National Library on Mt. Scopus is now in full progress, according to the plans perfected by Professor Geddes. The building will accommodate half a million volumes, with room for expansion to a million. The funds for the new library building have been granted by the administration of the David Wolffsohn Bequest.

The library was first organized in 1892 by the Jerusalem Lodge of the Bnai Brith. It received its first collection of books from the late Dr. Chazanowitz of Bialistok who had been gathering books for the purpose for a number of years. Dr. Hugo Bergman, formerly of the University Library of Prague, has been in charge of the library from its foundation to the present day. Among the recent gifts to the library are included a collection of 2,000 Hebrew volumes in other languages, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Fechheimer, of Cincinnati, as a memorial to their son Nathan Fechheimer. The collection contains a number of Hebrew incunabula and rare prints as well as several complete files of Jewish periodicals. Through the agency of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, and with the help of Mr. Emanuel Hertz and others, the library has received about 7,000 volumes, especially in the field of medicine, zoology, classical philology, art and history of music. A particularly valuable collection on Syrian philology has recently been donated by Dr. E. Chamitzer, of Leipzig. A number of Arabic and Persian manuscripts has been added to the Library through the generosity of Mr. Y. Dawud of London. Other gifts of recent date include collections coming from Russia, Greece, Germany and other countries.

The library has been fortunate in obtaining recognition and gifts from several governments and official departments of governments. The French Government has been particularly generous in the numerous gifts presented time and again. At the request of the Minister of Education in Germany, Dr. Becker, made to the Prussian universities and libraries to gather books for the Jewish National Library, a number of valuable works of reference have been added to the library. There are also several committees constantly at work in various centres to obtain donations to the library from various sources.

During 1925 the library added to its collection 20,855 books in 25,890 volumes. The number of catalogued books in the library on May 1, 1926, was 96,593 books in 118,019 volumes. The library is issuing a quarterly bibliographical journal, Kiryat Sefer, of which three volumes have thus far appeared. The Library also serves as the Library of the Hebrew University and is being constantly used by the students of the University.

In his report to the meeting of the Board of Governors of the Hebrew University, Dr. J. L. Magnes said that the Institute of Jewish Studies had during the past year seven professors and one visiting professor, Dr. Israel Davidson, of New York. The number of regular students registered at the Institute during the last term was sixty. A budget of $175,000 was adopted for the coming year and the final draft of the constitution was also adopted and the members of the Board of Governors as well as of the Academic Council were appointed, including a number of men from America.

It became known during the past week that the proposed plan to establish an English university in Palestine, after the style of the American College at Beirut is about to be carried out. The English College will be under the auspices of the Mission of the Anglican Bishops and will be built on the Mount of Olives. It is expected that all the buildings will be ready in the course of two years. The Arab anti-Semitic press has welcomed with glee the announcement of the new English College, seeing in this a foil to the Jewish influence that might be exerted by the Hebrew University. It expresses the hope that Arabic nationalism will receive a great impetus through the spirit that will prevail in the new institution.

MONUMENTS TO HEINE IN HAMBURG AND ALTONA

A big official function is being arranged in Hamburg, Germany, for next month, when the Lord Mayor, Dr. Petersen, will formally accept on behalf of the city, the statue of Heine by Professor Hugo Lederer, which till now has been standing practically forgotten in a corner of the Hamburg Art Gallery. The statue has now been placed in a prominent position in the City Park.

The neighbouring town of Altona will at about the same time place in an important public position on the banks of the River Elbe the Heine monument by the Danish sculptor, Hasselriis, which was originally erected by the Empress Elizabeth of Austria on Corfu.

SOKOLOW INSPECTS NEW NATIONAL FUND SETTLEMENTS

A report from the head office in Jerusalem to the Jewish National Fund Bureau states that Nahum Sokolow made special visits to the new National Fund settlement in Judea, some of which were non-existent at the time of his previous visit to Palestine. Mr. Sokolow was given enthusiastic receptions at Magdiel, Herzlia and Bnei Brak. In Rehovoth he inspected the Davom Labour Camp and conferred on the situation of the labour market.

Mr. Sokolow addressed a public meeting at Beth Haam which was attended by 4,000 people.

When Mr. Sokolow returned to Jerusalem he has been conferring almost continuously with the provisional Zionist Executive and other representatives.

DR PHILIP JOSEPH RETURNS TO MONTREAL

More attention ought to be given by Canadians to the study of international politics and the economics of foreign countries. This becomes rapidly more apparent as Canada emerges from its political and economic isolation, according to Philip Joseph, Ph.D., who has just returned from London.

Dr. Joseph has been studying abroad for the past few years under one of the Quebec provincial scholarships, and has had his thesis for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy accepted by London University. The work for which he receives his doctorate is a 500-page book on the diplomatic policies of the great powers with regard to China, entitled, "China's Fin de Siècle."

When questioned on his view of these scholarships, he replied that in his opinion not sufficient emphasis is being given to the necessity of acquiring knowledge which would primarily serve the interests of the state. "Public money expended ought to redound to the immediate benefit of the state. Undoubtedly great good is being done in foreign research in medicine and in other professions but at the same time the economic and political interests of our state likewise demand a specialized knowledge of its interests.

"Canada is rapidly moving forward to a point where it will be confronted with big economic and political questions, which require immediate solution. Unless there is in this country a body of men with a specialized knowledge of conditions in foreign countries, these Canadian problems will not receive as ready and as considered a solution as they ought," he stated.

"The ignorance which exists in foreign countries of affairs in Canada is beyond the comprehension of the ordinary citizen here," Dr. Joseph said. Large markets are likewise being neglected by Canada, both in Europe and in the far East, which are rapidly being acquired by other countries. A group of Canadians, well informed of economic and political conditions, could bring such markets to Canada, he said.

Another view expressed by Dr. Joseph is that if the state is not to lose full advantage of the training it has given these men abroad it must devise a plan whereby they are not lost sight of after they have returned to Canada; but are given, instead, opportunities of returning, through their carefully acquired knowledge, service in its fullest sense to their government.

Canada, he said, had great possibilities for trade in China with its 400 million inhabitants. This could be facilitated if Canadian manufacturers could be familiarized with the needs of China. There was need also, he thought of watching the development of the Pacific question in which we were vitally interested.

Dr. Joseph was president of the Young Judaea Organization of Canada for several years and is actively interested in Zionist affairs. A brother, Bernard Joseph, is practising law in Jerusalem; and two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Abbady and Miss Frances Joseph, are living there. Dr. Joseph will return to England at the end of October.

WHERE IS THE MAN OR WOMAN WHO CAN PASS THE NEW FOUR-DOOR SEDAN "JEWETT" BY AND NOT BE ATTRACTED BY ITS WONDERFUL LINES? WHERE IS THE WOMAN, WHO ONCE HAVING SEATED HERSELF IN ITS RESTFUL INTERIOR AND APPRAISED ITS WEALTH OF APPOINTMENTS THAT ARE SYMBOLS OF LUXURY IN MOTOR CARS, CAN PERSUADE HERSELF THAT A LESS EXQUISITELY FITTED AND FINISHED CAR IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR HER?

SHE WILL LOOK IN VAIN IN OTHER CARS FOR THE NICETIES THAT IN THE BEAUTIFUL NEW JEWETT CAUGHT HER EYE AND WON HER HEART. SHE WILL INSIST ON THEM. THEY WILL MEAN MUCH IN HER APPROVAL AND SATISFACTION IN THE FAMILY'S NEW MOTOR CAR.

AFTER YOU HAVE SEEN THIS NEW LINE OF CARS YOU WILL AGREE THAT FEW CARS AT ANY PRICE HAVE THE APPEAL OF THIS HANDSOME JEWETT. SEE L. PREFONTAINE, DISTRIBUTOR AT 21 DE LA ROCHE AVENUE FOR SERVICE AND SATISFACTION.

THE SHEIKEVITZ-ROSENFELD TROUPE TO PRODUCE "THE PRICE OF HONESTY" AT THE MONUMENT NATIONAL

Does it pay to be honest? This question, always the topic of the day, will be answered with the utmost thought and consideration in the great play, "The Price of Honesty," at the Monument National Theatre on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. This play will be presented by the Sheikevitz and Rosenfeld Troupe, which has become a favourite with the Jewish theatre-going public of this city.

"The Price of Honesty" is a comedy drama in four acts, which contains several catchy musical numbers and a moral lesson for both old and young. It must be understood that not only those familiar with the Yiddish language can benefit by witnessing a performance. Those who cannot understand Yiddish will find it a very interesting play to witness, as the plot and characters are Americanized. The leading roles will be portrayed by Jacob and Nina Sheikevitz, Harry and Rashelle Rosenfeld, ably supported by Ben Shoenfeld, Stella Derk, Leah Shoenfeld, Jacob Zonger, David Derk, Helen Beda and Louis Bokshitzky.

Under the joint auspices of Hadassah the Women's Zionist Organization and the American Jewish Physicians' Committee, a body known as the Hebrew University Fund for Palestine has been created for the purpose of raising $1,000,000 for the construction of additional modern hospitals in Palestine, including a Hebrew University hospital to be part of the medical faculty of the University. October and November are to be devoted to the raising of the funds and a special effort will be made to interest Jews of means to whom the humanitarian aspect of the work will make a special appeal.

Dr. Nathan Ratnoff, chairman of the American Jewish Physicians' Committee, is also chairman of the new body. Mrs. Irma Lindheim, president of American Hadassah, is the vice-chairman. A first remittance of $25,000 has been sent for the construction of a hospital in Tel-Aviv. The programme includes also hospitals in other centres and one particularly in the Valley of Jezreel, the principal present centre of Jewish colonization in Palestine. A tubercular sanitarium is also contemplated.

To "Every Friday" from a reader:

"I am a Gentile advertiser in your paper and have always been impressed with the excellent common sense of all your articles and have taken pleasure in reading them and been benefited by them. Your article re anti-Semitism is good but you failed to suggest that those good people whose feelings may have been hurt were too self-conscious and perhaps did not notice that some Gentiles were also shunned by other Gentiles when their tastes and desires and actions didn't blend well. Perhaps also if these good persons had observed closely they would have found some of their own people who appeared to be very welcome in company that some Gentiles were given the cold shoulder in. I have many hundreds of Jewish customers and taken as a whole, they rank every bit the equal of my Gentile ones and why shouldn't they? There are some Jewish customers hard to get along with, but there are just as many Gentile customers perhaps worse. I have many Jewish friends with whom I have dined and played, and these are just as good in breeding as I am. There are some Jews and lots of Gentiles I wouldn't care to associate with and the same applies to my Jewish companions. I think you will find that those self-conscious injured ones would be and are more prejudiced against some of their own race than Gentiles have been against them."

The Jewish Tribune is in the throes of its fifth annual voting contest, a thing of great delight to editors in far-off places. The Tribune has already handed out to a waiting world the names culled from former contests of: the twelve outstanding Jews of America, the twelve foremost Jews of the world, the six foremost Jewish women of America and the ten Jews who have done the most for America. It now proposes to publish the names of the ten Americans who have done the most to bring about goodwill and mutual understanding between Jews and Gentiles. This will be accomplished as soon as enough Jewish voting-contest-lovers have thought and thought and thought very hard and compiled the lists from which the winning names are taken.

These contests are known to the trade as out-and-out circulation-makers and publicity-getters. The Tribune contests are a treat for the charming guilelessness with which the editor assumes that his readers consist of low-grade morons and for the way many readers do succumb to the announcement literature. The contest-lovers simply can't withstand the witchery of being called upon to think and to think hard and also to delve, to delve and delve into, say, American history, the scholarly files of the English-Jewish press, the Jewish Encyclopaedia and the publications of the American Jewish Historical Society.

The blah-blah on this contest "which affords all those who love to think an opportunity for useful cogitation" is as good as any you will ever find: "As in the past," avers the Tribune, "our purpose is largely educational. Since the World War we have heard so much of the racial antagonisms and of the malicious manifestation of bigotry and intolerance, that we would do well to glance through the history of America up to and including our own day and review the grand roster of names of those who have worked and are working for goodwill as opposed to bigotry and for friendship as opposed to intolerance. We offer this question to bring once more to the public attention the inherent Americanism of goodwill and friendship between the Jews and the Christians. We trust, too, that the facts which will be brought out in connection with these leaders and their services to the community will be a guide to Americans of the younger generation and an inspiration to them to continue the great work that helps to make America a greater moral force and an ever richer family of nations."

So, carried away into the silence on a high wave of intellectuality, the contest-lover probably knows nothing until he emerges with his list of those who have done the most for goodwill. One says: "The announcement of your latest contest sent me flying to my American history, as it must have done many of your other readers, to replenish my knowledge of historic events. As a result of my renewed acquaintance with American history I am able to name you the ten greatest 'good-willers' America has produced."

Without bothering to fly to American history, some one should honour the Unknown Goodwiller. The Unknown Goodwiller creates goodwill in his daily life without being famous. He never hooks his auto horn except as a warning. His children aren't allowed to give late parties and keep neighbours awake. Perhaps he is a bootlegger who sells nothing but very dependable stuff. He may be a bookmaker who has never welched a bet. Perhaps he is a delicatessen store-keeper and makes it possible for Goyim to get something good to eat every now and then. Is he a Gentile who tells his children to run and play nicely with those Jewish children and to be sure not call them sheenies? Perhaps he is just any decent citizen whose word is his bond and who is always upright in all his dealings with all men. The Unknown Goodwiller is a composite of many virtues. Let him be a contribution from the REVIEW to the Tribune, a present to the editor with best wishes for long-continued success.

What settlers say of the soil, climate farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

To the conscientious student who comes to school to obtain guidance in life the question we have put will be a disquieting one. He will have to make an effort to answer it.

Here it is that the Menorah organization fills a need in Jewish student life.

The founders of Menorah were a group of university students who felt that they must avail themselves of the opportunities and facilities at the university to figure out what Jewishness meant. The general curriculum was supposed to be designed to satisfy student curiosity as to the various fields of inquiry. The field of Jewish learning was not included in the curriculum. There was a body of men interested in this field. The Menorah men undertook to remedy the deficiency in the curriculum. Menorah offers a Jewish supplement to the curriculum.

It is to be hoped that the Jewish students will avail themselves of the facilities which Menorah affords them for student-like investigation into the problems of Jewism. Let them rally around Menorah and bring it up to the level of effectiveness which the far-sighted founders have wished for it. The students owe it to themselves to improve upon their opportunities to gain a proper equipment of Jewish knowledge. They owe it to the Jewish community and to the university which aims to be a centre of knowledge and enlightenment.

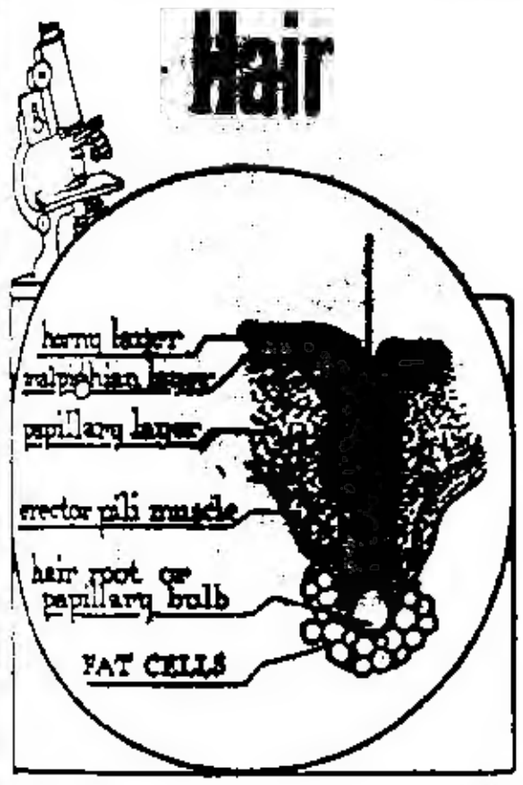
Pembers Grow Hair



In many cases even where baldness had appeared we have been able to grow hair sufficiently to cover the scalp, but we do not advise that you should wait until baldness has appeared, but the first grey hair that appears you should consult a specialist who thoroughly understands the deeper secrets of growing hair and of preventing greyness and baldness.

Many years ago Mr. Pember discovered the cause of thin and grey hair and many of our patrons know the value of his assistance in keeping a full head of glossy hair. Especially now, many ladies are getting their hair short and it is often dressed by inexperienced operators who do not know hair should be handled and do not know when it should be treated or what to do to remove the cause of the trouble that you may have.

It pays to have for your hair dresser a specialist from whom you can receive advice at all times.

We have a staff of the best operators in Canada and a specialist who will give you advice gratis.

SHEA'S

Heading the list of attractions at Shea's Hippodrome next week is Daphne Pollard, the tiny Australian comedienne. She will be heard in a group of her characterizations as well as in Paul Cerard Smith's comedy sketch, "Everybody's Welcome."

Harry Roye and Billee Maye and eight other dancers with personality, originality and good taste, have a little revue called Dance, Color and Speed.

A. C. Astor, English ventriloquist, is again in Canada. It is not as a ventriloquist alone that A. C. Astor claims attention. He is a humorist with a deft touch of satire.

Not every composer can sing and not every singer can compose. Bert Rule, who with John O'Brien provides vaudeville with a few happy moments, is one of the few who can do both. Mr. Rule is composer of "Have a Smile for Everyone You Meet" and others.

Lloyd Nevada is an illusionist and with a well-trained company presents an offering of mirth and mystery. Other feature acts, with the Hippodrome Weekly and an Aesop Fable, complete the programme. The programme is under the direction of Fred Culley with Roland Todd at the Wurlitzer.

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

An event of genuine significance to the theatre is the coming of the great London actor, Matheson Lang, to the Royal Alexandra Theatre on Monday evening, when he will open a week's engagement, during which he and his all-English company will appear in two plays. "The Wandering Jew" on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with "Carnival" billed for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

E. Temple Thurston has adopted a unique method of treating the ancient legend of "The Wandering Jew." He divides the action of the drama into four phases—the day of the Crucifixion, a scene outside the walls of Antioch at the time of the first Crusade, another in Sicily in the thirteenth century, and the last, in Spain, during the period of the Inquisition. In each phase the Jew appears under a different guise, but always he is the same character, with the same mentality, and enduring the same burden of universal antagonism. Mr. Lang plays the Jew, but he has three leading women, Miss Hutin Britton (Mrs. Matheson Lang), Miss Winifred Izard, and Miss May Ward, for different phases. Others who play prominent roles are: Shayle Gardner, Bodkin, Cunningham, jr., Butler, Rooke, Thirwell and Denham Lewis, and Miss Helene Simon, Elsie Judge and Eva Blanchette.

Adapted from the popular Italian play, "Sirocco," by Matheson Lang and H. C. Hardinge, "Carnival" is a modern drama dealing with the eternal triangle, with a novel twist that makes it one of the most interesting dramas of its kind.

CAPTAIN LOEWENSTEIN OFFERS $50,000,000 TO BELGIUM

Great interest has been aroused in London, England, by Captain Albert Loewenstein's offer to lend the Belgian Government $50,000,000 without interest, as reported in the continental press the other day.

The new "mystery millionaire," whose name was unknown to the general public until a few days ago, is considered in financial circles to be one of Europe's richest men today. The suddenness with which his name burst upon the world recalls that other mystery man, Sir Basil Zaharoff, some years ago.

Shunning the limelight like his prototype, Loewenstein has managed to maintain a residence in England for fifteen years without arousing the attention of the press, although his war charities earned for him the rank of Companion of the Order of the Bath, the second highest order in Great Britain.

Coming to London shortly before the war, he has exerted a great power behind the scenes from the carefully guarded obscurity of his large estate near Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire.

His interests are enormous. Inquiry reveals that he is a director of the Cellulose Holding Investment Company of London; also the Marcelona Traction, Light and Power Company, and a trust which controls a great traction system in South America.

Mr. Loewenstein was born in Belgium forty-nine years ago, starting life in Brussels, where his father was engaged in banking on a small scale. He took over the business at his father's death and launched into high finance. Today he is known in inner circles as a bold speculator, a man who has his finger in every financial pie, but who never makes a mistake.

The fact of his fabulous wealth first leaked out last week when he acquired a private fleet of luxurious airplanes to fly between his summer residence at Biarritz and the European capitals. By this means he is continuing his operations without risking his secrets in telegrams. These planes bring business men and messengers to him daily and take him anywhere without arousing attention.

He and his staff occupy seven villas at Biarritz, one housing his pilots. The establishment is said to cost him $100,000 a week. One of his air pilots in giving a description of him said he was a human dynamo—a man who never had an idle moment, and made a fetish of physical culture as well as amassing wealth.

Rising early, he begins work with his secretaries while shaving, dictating at lightning speed. Discussing business with guests at breakfast, he often wheels around in his chair to dictate a memorandum, and a corps of typists and clerks is busy all day dealing with his gigantic correspondence.

His stupendous energy finds an outlet in boxing, riding, motoring and golfing with a private professional. In Leicestershire, where he owns 1000 acres, he is known as a brilliant sportsman, never missing a season behind the hounds.

Dr. Alexander Jabotinsky has been appointed Professor at the Medical Faculty of the Buenos Ayres University. He is the first Jewish professor in Argentine.

The Adonis League is the name of a new organization ofrmed in Budapest and composed mainly of anti-semitic youths with the avowed purpose to terrorize Jewish girls, and in this way take revenge of Jews who take part in the white slave traffic.

DOING GOOD WORK

The attendance at each of Shaw's Eleven Toronto Business Training Schools of young men and women who are preparing for a business career, is reported as larger than at any previous Autumn Term. We understand these results may be largely attributed to the success of Graduates in securing suitable positions as soon as properly prepared, and from the excellent work done in these schools. The Autumn Term is followed by a Winter Session, from January 3 next, thus providing for continuous work by students now enrolling.

NEW EXPERIMENTAL STATION IN THE EMEK

A report just received by the National Fund Bureau from Jerusalem headquarters intimates that the Agricultural Experimental Station of the Zionist Executive has announced the establishment of a new Experimental Station in Djebata on land of the Jewish National Fund, three miles from Nahalal and about one mile from the railway line. Sir Mortimer Davis to Give $300,000 to Build Two Y.M.H.A. Club Houses

Sir Mortimer Davis has announced that he will give the Y.M.H.A. a clubhouse in the northeast section of the city, the erection cost of which will be not less than $250,000. This announcement was made Friday, Sept. 24, at a luncheon at the Montefiore Club, where Sir Mortimer was entertaining prior to his departure for his winter home on the Riviera.

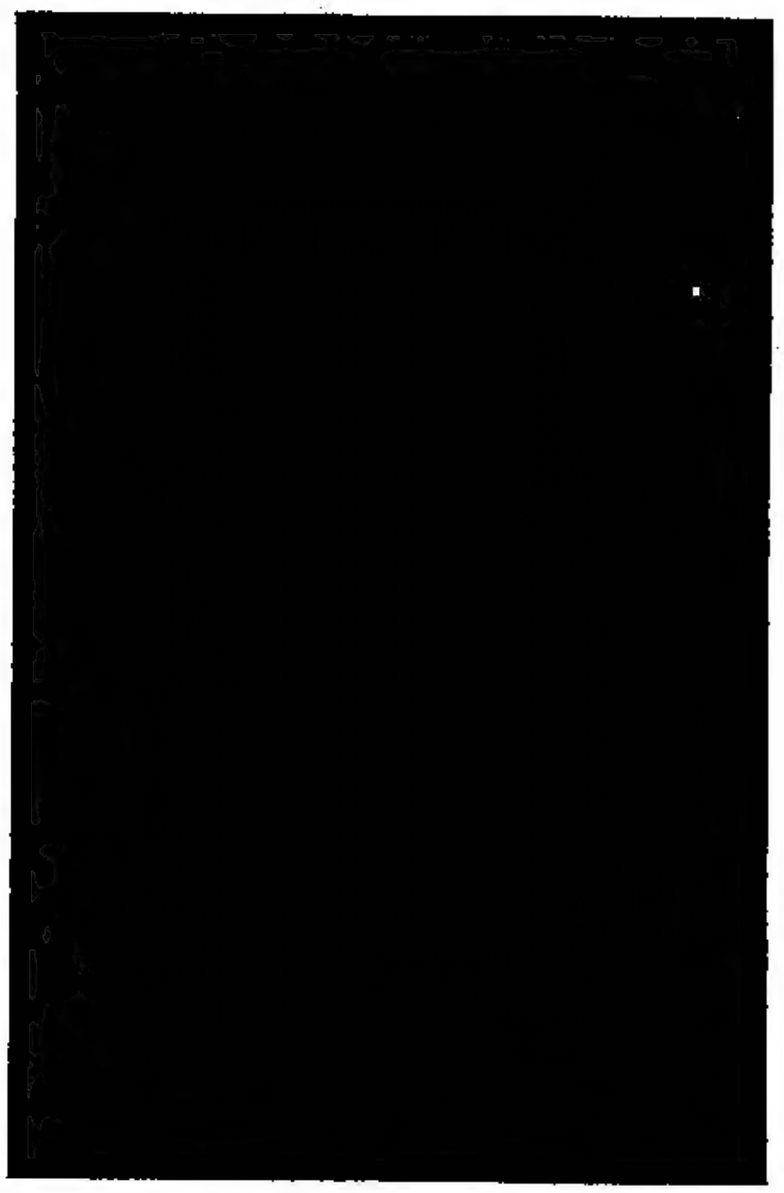
Invited guests were: Ald. Louis Rubenstein, president, and Sol Kellert, past president, of the Y.M.H.A., who, in its behalf, acknowledged and accepted the offer of Sir Mortimer; M. Weinstein, managing director of the Y.M.H.A.; Maxwell Goldstein, K.C., Michael Hirsch, Loyn Cohen, and Jos. Levinson, Sr., all past presidents; and Al Lesser, the president, David Kirsch, chairman of the executive of the Federation, to which Sir Mortimer is a large subscriber; A. H. Jacoby, Edgar M. Berliner, Isaac Friedman, and Louis Solomon, president of the Mount Sinai Sanatorium; Dr. Jos. Kaufman, M. Epstein and J. Latt.

The building, in the northeast section of the city, will take care of a membership of from 5,000 to 6,000 boys, young men and women. In addition, Sir Mortimer subscribed $50,000 towards the erection of a similar club house to be erected in the northwest end of the city or in Westmount, this club house also to be fully equipped but on a somewhat smaller scale.

Sol Kellert donated an additional $10,000.

Sir Mortimer said that he hopes some day to see an adjunct to the club house, a playing field or stadium provided, where such games as football, lacrosse, baseball, cricket, tennis, lawn bowling and outdoor skating could be indulged in. President Alderman Louis Rubenstein and Past President Sol Kellert, of the "Y," acknowledged the gift.

Officers of the "Y" are: honorary president, J. Goldstein; president, Ald. Louis Rubenstein; vice-president, Nathan Gordon; treasurer, D. Shalinsky; secretary, M. Levitt; honorary director, Sol Kellert; executive director, M. H. Weinstein; directors, L. Jason, Dr. A. M. Rabinovitch, F. Leopold, G. Salomon, P. Abbey S. Robinson, Z. Levinson, J. Albert, J. Stewart, L. H. Fischel, P. Meyerovitch, L. Leon, W. Friedman, H. N. Friedman, J. Steinhouse, L. Sendel, R. Jacobs, S. Pearson and I. Stober.



Sir Mortimer Davis

Sir Mortimer stated that one of the most pressing needs is adequate accommodation for the gathering together under favourable conditions of the Jewish youth of Montreal and the inculcation in their young minds of the importance of healthful sports, clean living, and a sincere understanding of the responsibilities of citizenship and loyalty to the country of their birth or adoption. He said he had visited the Young Men's Hebrew Association Club House on St. Urbain Street and regretted to find its facilities inadequate to the requirements of its growing membership (some 1,800 in all). He admired the persistence which had made it possible to carry on the organization under such unfavourable circumstances and also the record of constituent clubs, many of which had taken the lead in Montreal in amateur sport.

HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

The Hebrew Maternity Hospital will launch a campaign to obtain funds for a proposed Jewish Hospital. Committee, Harry Gordon, president; C. B. Fainer, vice-president; J. A. Budyk, honorary secretary; G. Solomon, treasurer; and A. Asch, Alan Bronfman, Lyon Cohen, R. A. Darwin, S. Dushes, A. Dobrofsky, T. Glickman, F. Leopold, A. Raginsky, A. Rudolph and Dr. N. Schachter.
